Reflect

There is fullness of joy in the presence of God. When he stands at the door and knocks, we can respond in worship.

Pastor Greg Surratt gives us a history of how Response Time came to be at Seacoast and provides six ways we can respond to God's love.

1. We respond by singing our praise.

We gather every weekend to encounter a holy God together. How can you make worship a priority throughout the week?

We don't have to wait for something to happen before we worship. Can you worship even during your ordinary daily routine?

2. We respond by confessing our sin.

You can't work your way into grace, he freely gives it. When you confess your sin, God immediately forgives you. What is something you can use as a visual reminder to walk in holiness before God?

3. We respond by praying for others.

We should pray for friends and family, people in authority and even those who don't like us. Take a few minutes and pray for each of the members of your group.

4. We respond by receiving communion.

How do you connect communion with remembrance of Jesus's sacrifice for us?

5. We respond by giving our tithe to him.

- a. How can you give joyfully to God as an act of worship?
- b. Why do you think tithing is a form of worship?

6. We respond by asking others to pray for us.

Take a minute in your group to share prayer requests, or send a text to a friend asking them to pray for something specific in your life.

Respond:

In Isaiah 29:13-14, God says he will astound these people with wonder upon wonder. Are you ready for God's wonder and his grace in your life by responding to him in worship?
